Part II: Reading (15 Marks)

Passage 1

One day, all the animals from the jungle were sitting in a circle. They were feeling excited because this was the day to choose their new king.

The animals took turns to give a speech about why they wanted to be king. When the fox was giving his speech, a lot of the other animals were getting bored, and they weren't listening. Then it was the monkey's turn, but he didn't give a speech. He danced, made silly faces and made the other animals laugh. They decided to make the monkey king.

The fox knew it was a bad decision, and he was angry. The monkey didn't have the right qualities to be a king. He decided to play a trick to the monkey. 'I've got a present for you' he told the monkey. 'Follow me'. The monkey followed him. All the animals were watching.

As they were walking through the jungle, the fox pointed towards a tree. 'Look at all those bananas!' he said. As the monkey running to the tree, he fell into a trap. 'Help! Help!' he shouted. He wasn't dancing now. 'How can the monkey look after us and be our king?' asked the fox. 'He cannot even look after himself.' The animals realized that they were wrong. 'You are our king now' they told the fox. 'You are clever and can protect us.'

Passage 2

It was a beautiful hot day in Bangkok, Thailand, and the sun was shining. Four boys in high school decided to stay at home during the morning and play football in the nearby park. They had a difficult English exam that day but they were not studying for it. They planned to miss class and take the exam the next day after receiving the answers from friends.

The boys were playing football when it started to rain heavily. It was time to stop playing football and go to school. The boys were going to science class when the Teacher Bird saw them in the hallway. ‘Why did you miss the exam today?’ he asked. A smart boy responded with a lie, ‘we were driving to school, but my car had a flat tire. The tire had no air and the car could not move.’

‘No problem, you can take the exam now’ Teacher Bird said. The boys were feeling very worried, but Teacher Bird was smiling. ‘Oh, don’t worry! It’s easy! It’s only one question!’ Teacher Bird told them. When they were sitting in separate seats, he gave them the exam. They opened the exam and saw the questions: -Which tire was flat?-
